

China Southern Airlines

Baggage Rules

1 Carry-on Baggage

1.1 Notes to Passengers

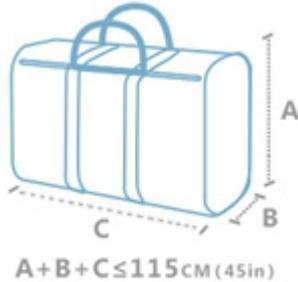

China Southern Airlines will check your carry-on baggage before check-in and boarding. Please do check your carry-on items that exceed the limits to weight, number of pieces or volume. China Southern Airlines reserve the right to determine at our discretion whether your baggage needs to be transported as carry-on baggage or checked baggage, taking the safety and comfort of you as well as other passengers into account.

For the safety of passengers and crew members, please put your carry-on baggage in the rack above your seat or under the seat in front of you. Passengers seated near emergency exits (including those seated near wing exits and in the first row) must put their baggage in the overhead rack to ensure that the baggage will not hinder evacuation in case of emergency.

1.2 Limits for Carry-on Baggage

The passengers are required to check all the relevant regulations and information regarding carry-on baggage allowance and items allowed to be carried.

1.2.1 Rules of carry-on baggage for each passenger (excluding infants) are shown as below.

Note: Carry-on items that exceed the above limits to weight, number of pieces or volume should be transported as checked baggage. Please check your baggage at the check-in counter or self-service baggage checking equipment in advance. China Southern Airlines may inspect your baggage at check-in counter, security check counter, boarding gate and aircraft cabin. Your baggage exceeding the free baggage allowance will be charged as per excess baggage rate.

1.2.2 In addition to your carry-on baggage allowance listed above, you may bring the following carry-on items free of charge:

Item	Available to
A coat, shawl, or rug	All passengers except infants who board for free or are charged 10% of the full fare for boarding

2 Checked Baggage

2.1 Limitations of Baggage Weight and Size

Types	Routes	Maximum Weight of Each Piece	Maximum Dimensions per Piece
Domestic Flights		50kg/PIECE
International/Regional Flights	Routes involve United States	45kg/PIECE
	Routes do not involve United States	32kg/PIECE

Note:

1. During domestic segment of international flights, the free baggage allowance for every passenger shall be calculated in accordance with that of international itineraries;
2. The above specifications of baggage (including volume and weight) are the maximum dimensions that the Airlines can accept, not the free baggage allowance. You need to pay for the excess of free baggage allowance.
3. Any baggage exceed the above specifications must not be transported as passenger baggage. Therefore, it is recommended that you take apart the baggage as subpackage to ensure it meets the restrictions and thus can be checked as normal baggage. If any baggage cannot be separated, passengers are advised to consign it to Cargo Department of China Southern Airlines.
4. The specific baggage allowance is subject to the passenger ticket.
